Throng witnessed the opening last night of the cafe at No. 168 Temple street of Mr. Jack Lucey, who was formerly manager of the Monopole.

We are pleased to note that our esteemed friend, Mr. W. E. Whittelsey, has opened an office at 101 Orange street and will conduct a newspaper advertising agency. We wish him success.

Mendel Yaffe, a clerk employed by Jacob H. Rubin of Union street, was arrested yesterday by Officers B. T. Moore and Delaney and locked up, charged with the theft of a quantity of leather from his employer.

The mother of Campus Policeman

James E. Donnelly died at her home in Westboro, Mass., at an early hour yesterday morning. During his absence from the city his best on the campus is being covered by Supernumerary Christopher A. Ledwith.

Velvet skirts are being worn in Paris this minute. American women have waited patiently for these elegances which were so fashionable and high priced years ago. To-day Malley, Neely & Co. sell rich velvets for this purpose at from $1 to $1.50 a yard.

Scotch Tweeds made up into a run-about dress for shopping, walking, driving or even calling, are effective and comfortable looking all over. A few pretty buttons, a stylish belt, the fit of the waist and the proper tilt of the skirt are, of course, indispensable.

Malley, Neely & Co. sell the material at 50c a yard.

Buy a handsome English Tweed, have it made up perfectly plain, the waist modeled not too closely to the form, the skirt hung to move gracefully with the step, and you'll feel correctly attired these crisp November mornings. Maley, Neely & Co. sell the goods at $1.50 to $2.50 a yard.

Superintendent Williams of the Garnet quarry, Roxbury, has been appointed postmaster at the new fourth rate postoffice just established in that town by the government. The postal authorities objected to the name "Roxbury" for the new station, as there are so many of that name, and it was called

Garnet.

Wreckage from the Elbe.

London, Nov. 4.—Two pieces of wreckage, doubtfully parts of the ship's boats, has been washed ashore on Gun Island. One of the pieces bears the word "London," and the other the word

"Elbe."

SHE HEARD ANGEL VOICES.

Mrs. Maria Curtiss Moseley's Strange Premonition—She Would Soon Have Celebrated at 95 the Seventy-fourth Anniversary of Her Marriage, With Five Generations of the Family Present.

Mrs. Maria Curtiss Moseley, the native of Woodbury, Conn., whose death was mentioned Saturday, was the wife of William Graham Moseley, and she passed away suddenly Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Hinman, 257 Warren street,

Roxbury, at the age of ninety-five.

The Boston Traveller says: Preparations were being made to celebrate on November 12 the seventy-fourth anniversary of the marriage of this respected couple, both of whom have been strong and active up to last night and looking forth with eagerness and interest to the celebration.

Five generations would have been present to take part in the anniversary celebration next week and representatives of the extremes of a century almost could have joined hands in the persons of Mr. Moseley, born in 1799, and Agnes Homer, a great-grand-son-child, born this year.

Mrs. Moseley had an experience within a few days which her friends look upon as a peculiar and beautiful premonition that she was soon to cross the border-land of death. Sitting down stairs one day last week, she heard a song break out, faint and indistinct at first, which seemed to come from outside the house. Gradually the sound grew louder, clearer and more beautiful and finally a full chorus of sweet voices broke on her ears. The joyful cries of young children were interspersed with the music and joy, and gladness seemed to ring through the air. The words of the song, as Mrs. Moseley afterwards repeated them to her daughter, Mrs.

Hinman, were:

"I am carried, I am carried

On the wings of love;

I am carried, I am carried,

To the throne above."

Nothing to her mind could be a clearer premonition of her passing away and her children were so impressed by the occurrence that they had resolved to acquaint the Rev. Minot J. Savage of the fact, as he is interested in psychology.

Mrs. Moseley, whose maiden name was Curtiss, was born November 12, 1800, in Woodbury, Conn. She married

William Graham Moseley November 12, 1821. Mr. Moseley was also born in Woodbury, August 6, 1799. His family has been celebrated for its longevity, his father, John, living to be one hundred years and four months. When but fifteen years old Mr. Moseley went to Sullivan Harbor, Me., to clerk in Geo.

Hurman's store. He afterwards returned to his native place and then returned to Maine, where he went into business for himself and became a prosperous merchant, retiring about thirty years ago to make his home with Mrs.

George Hinman.

If it was not for his failing sight and a slight lameness Mr. Moseley would not look a day over seventy-five. He has a luxuriant head of hair and his eyesight is not so bad but that he reads the papers daily. He is as interested to-day in the affairs of the country as he was when a young man, and with unfading zeal he keeps himself informed of how things are going, and loves nothing more than to discuss the topics of the times. Mr. Moseley is a faithful Universalist and a loyal Republican.

It is a peculiar fact that about every one of the marriages in the family have taken place in November, and thus it happens that if Mr. Moseley and his wife had celebrated their seventy-fourth wedding anniversary he would have been joined in the celebration by his daughter, Mrs. George Hinman, on her fifty-sixth anniversary. His granddaughter, Mrs. H. J. Boardman, on her thirty-third, and his great-granddaughter, Mrs. Thomas Jay Homer, on her fifth. Among those present would have been Mrs. Homer's children, the great-granddaughter and son, Agnes

Homer and Halsey Boardman Homer.

MALLEY-NEELY & CO.

TELEPHONE No. 33.

Five Years Ago

or thereabouts we began to advertise in what is called the "conversational style." That is, telling our business facts in a readable way. Talking in type, so to speak. It was entirely new and untried in New Haven.

By and by it aroused the envy of other merchants. They set their wits to work. They studied our advertisements by day and dreamed them over by night. They commenced writing little at a time, until to day some of their advertisements are really splendid imitations. Fact is, (we might as well own up) they out-talk us.

But the Big Store lives and moves and has a being! Every day we tell, as briefly and forcefully as we know how, a few facts which people like to know. Once here, the many important untold facts are caught at sight.

To be sure, it would be a very unusual occurrence for us to sell 4582 pairs of Socks a day, and it will probably take another 40 years of retailing to teach us how to sell—

$7.00 Capes for $3.98 $11.00 Jackets for $5.98 $1.60 Underwear for 89 cents $1.40 Sweaters for 69 cents $1.25 Dress Linings for 50 cents 18 cent Hosiery for 8 cents 26 cent Dress Shields for 10 cents and to keep right on doing it with perfect and fashionable staple goods, at a season when merchants always expect a profit.

Fortunate for us that there are people left who really prefer to pay enough for goods, to give us a little show on profit.

Bankrupt Sales are fast going to that business bourne from whence no Baxter Street Swindler ever returns, and Bogus Bargain Sales are fast following in their wake. Some American women may be fooled once, twice, maybe three times, but four times!—hardly.
